Good Morning All!

SuperForester Harry just sent us word of the most incredible site!

Have you ever said to yourself: "I wish there was a website that showed kids how to make hundreds of amazing toys for free, out of common household materials, and that these toys would also educate any child that played with them about the scientific explanations behind the forces that govern our existence."

Arvind Gupta has created just such a website.

Musical instruments, physics experiments, more physics experiments, toys out of trash exclusively, science toys, easy electricity labs, origami, pumps, flying toys, DIY furniture... All of these and so much more.

Playing with toys is fun. Playing with toys and learning about the amazing forces that govern our universe is ever so much more fun.
